Dear Friends,

Throughout our lives we all experience “no going back” moments – those times or circumstances that change us forever. Sometimes those moments are obvious life-changers: accepting a job offer, relocating to a new city, becoming a parent. Others – a first date, a medical appointment – we may not recognize as significant until much later.

People who come to Walk-In may not realize it, but the moment they physically walk in our door they experience a “no going back” moment. When they meet with a counselor and begin to explore and tackle tough issues, they also walk through an emotional door...it’s a brave moment...they’ve started a journey of healing...they don’t know what they’re going to find along the way, but undoubtedly they will be changed...and there’s no going back.

In 2013, Walk-In Counseling Center had its own “no going back” moment. Huge changes in health care were looming with the advent of MNsure, and we had to ask a few big questions: If everyone will soon “have insurance” will there be a role for Walk-In at all? How might our role change? Will we have to quietly close our doors like so many other nonprofits have?

We had been a critical part of this community for 44 years, so it was difficult to “walk through the door” and explore these questions. But we did. And after many discussions with very knowledgeable people in health care and in the community, we became convinced that, even with the new changes and expansions in health care, Walk-In will continue to be a much-needed, primary “safety net” service.

And the community agrees. Early in the year we surveyed community service providers, and their overwhelming message was, “Walk-In, please continue to do this badly needed work!”

- 100% agreed that our services address gaps in the mental health system
- 97% said that the free and no-appointment-needed nature of our services are very important
- 94% believed we contribute to a broader community culture of positive mental health

Our “no going back” moment happened when we fully incorporated the message that, regardless of the changes and uncertainty about health insurance, we must continue to provide our services our way. We are needed by so many people, and we will not turn them away in their “no going back” moments.

- Mary Weeks, Executive Director

"I have grown personally and professionally by volunteering at Walk-In. The interactions with clients and team members have helped teach me the art of patience, kindness, humility, and grace." - 2013 Volunteer

"I've learned and grown in an environment that is nurturing, supportive, welcoming and committed to providing clients the high-quality care they deserve." - 2013 Volunteer

Volunteers are the heart and soul of Walk-In. Without them we simply could not provide our services for free to the many people who need us.

In 2013, 164 volunteers were there for our clients in their "no going back" moments...and in turn experienced their own "no going back" moments as they developed both professionally and personally.

Social workers, psychologists, marriage and family therapists, professional counselors, advanced graduate students and lay volunteers made up our clinic teams. In total, they volunteered 13,894 hours of their time and talents – an estimated $826,595 in volunteer services to this community!

With gratitude, we wish to recognize these volunteers:

In 2013, 2,111 people needed us in their “no going back” moment, and we provided them with 6,342 sessions of free mental health counseling at our Minneapolis and St. Paul sites. More than 60% of these free sessions were scheduled, follow-up appointments to address more complex issues. An additional 200 people received more casual ongoing interventions and group counseling at Love Grows Here Wellness Center in St. Paul.

Walk-In matters to so many people. It’s the only place where they find no waiting lists and no fees, just instant access to the support and help they need when life gets messy.

That’s important – 99% of clients responding to our 2013 survey reported that the most important reason they came to Walk-In was our free services. Almost as important were the walk-in nature of our services and our services being provided by professionals.

Our 2013 client survey also revealed:

- 93% of respondents to the survey felt more capable of coping with their presenting issues as a result of coming to Walk-In
- 98% felt like they now had somewhere to go for help in the future
- 98% would refer a loved one in need

We have always believed that when people get the help they need to cope with difficult life circumstances they “do better”. And when individuals do better, so do their families and communities.

“As a person who was broke and suffering from depression (Walk-In) has given me a light at the end of the tunnel.” - 2013 Client

“Thank you for being here. I needed this help and didn’t have anywhere else to go.” - 2013 Client
